Elves And The Shoemaker Will Be Produced Here This Week

The Children's Theatre production of "The Elves and the Shoemaker," directed by Prof. R. E. Johnson, will be presented tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday in the Auditorium.

The play will be presented at 10 a.m. tomorrow, and at 9:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday. Admission at the door will be 50 cents plus tax.

Dramatized by Charlotte B. Chorprenning and Nora MacAlvey, "The Elves and the Shoemaker" is an old fairy tale.

A young elf, just beginning to learn elf duties, is accompanied by two experienced elves, who take him to the Shoemaker's shop for his first assignment.

Here they find a scene of distress, as the Shoemaker has gone to war, and his wife and daughter are in danger of losing the shop for debt to the greedy Heckla if they cannot make her a pair of shoes for the next day.

Late that night the elves make the shoes and return the next day to see their success. But Heckla has intercepted the money to pay off the debt and is about to take possession.

String Orchestra Presents An Opportunity To Community

By CARL ROGERS
Last Sunday afternoon the Murray State College String Orchestra, under the direction of Professor David J. Gowan, was presented in concert in the Recital Hall of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Building. Soloists appearing with the Orchestra were Carolyn Childers, oboe, and Leslie R. Putnam, baritone.

The String Orchestra, which performed several pieces alone, began the program with Handel's "Concerto Grosso, Opus 6, No. 2".

The Orchestra also played two pieces by contemporary English composers, including "Canilena" by Christian Darrington, and "A Simple Suite" by C. Armstrong Gibbs.

The orchestra quite obviously had given a large amount of time and careful effort to the preparation of its music. The fact that the string program of the College is a going concern, as the String Orchestra demonstrates, makes one grateful for the fact that this absolutely indispensable opportunity exists for the benefit and musical growth of the music students and the community.

Executive Group Of Church Women Hold Meet Monday

Fifteen members of the Executive Board of the United Church Women met at the home of Mrs. E. R. Hagen Monday morning to discuss 1962 annual reports and lay plans for the work of the coming year. The women's organizations of six local churches were represented in the meeting. The hostess served coffee and breakfast rolls.

Mrs. Charles Crawford, chairman, opened the meeting with prayer, after which Mrs. Harry Whayne, secretary, called the roll of the churches. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Hester Wright.

The Board authorized the sending of the 1963 pledge for the work of the State Council of United Church Women.

Plans were announced for the World Day of Prayer observance which will be held in the Goshen Methodist Church on Friday, March 1. The First Methodist Church was designated as host church for the May Fellowship Luncheon.

It was announced that local dues to the Council are due February 1.

A gift of money to buy shoes was authorized for the local Clothing Bank.

Mrs. Ed Glover, Mrs. David Gowan and Mrs. Ruth Wilson were named as the Nominating Committee.

The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Glover.

Hibernating Snake Put In Box Before He Thawed Out

William Morris of Chestnut Street, brought a hibernating snake to the Ledger and Times yesterday. Morris said that he found the adult Cotton Mouth Moccasin lying on top of the ice. Apparently the snake crawled out on a warm day and failed to return to his hibernating spot before the freeze set in.

He planned to put the snake in a cage to see if it would return to normal.

The snake began to soften up as Morris was explaining about it, and it was the consensus of opinion that it would be wise to put the snake somewhere it would not bite if it thawed out more quickly than expected.

Snakes usually hibernate for the winter, but do crawl out on the weather moderates sufficiently. The temperature climbed to 37 several days ago and possibly the snake figured that Spring had arrived.

Citizen Group Holds Meeting Last Night

Citizens Advisory Committee appointed by the Murray Board of Education to aid with some of the problems associated with conducting the business of the city school system met last night at Murray High School.

Maurice Ryan, chairman of the Board of Education presided and told the group that it was the purpose at this time to furnish the advisory committee with any information which they wanted, regarding the school system and its operation.

At some later date the committee will make recommendations as to the solution of some of the problems which the board has before it.

Superintendent Fred Schultz explained that at the first meeting some of the philosophy and purpose of the school system was brought to the committee.

Last night Schultz explained the financial status of the system, where its money comes from, and where it goes, and how the system compares with other like systems in the state from a financial standpoint.

"We will do well to maintain our present status," Schultz told the group after a study of the finances of the school.

The comparison study indicates that among ten school systems studied, Murray High ranked second from the bottom as far as cost per pupil is concerned. Murray High spends $508 per pupil while the highest among the ten systems compared spends $560. Murray High ranks third from the bottom in the ten as far as the local school tax rate is concerned. The tax rate in Murray is a total of $1.90 per hundred while the highest among the ten had a tax rate of $2.00.

The real estate ratio locally is 26.0 while the highest among the ten is 34.0. This figure is arrived at by taking property which changed hands last year and comparing the actual sale price figure with the figure at which the property was formally listed for taxes.

Schultz pointed out that the bonded indebtedness of the school system is $317,000. This being repaid annually with interest.

The enrollment of Murray schools is listed as 1382 with a total expenditure for the operation of the schools as $421,111.

Schultz asked those present to study the figures which were presented to them and to seek to find some answers which will be called for at a later time. The budget is "tight" he said and little leeway is possible in the event of an emergency.

Mr. Schultz summarized his report in six points as follows: "Our expenditure per pupil is below the national and state average, we are third from the bottom of the ten systems, our assessment ratio of 26.0 is also third from the bottom of these systems, our bonded indebtedness is below the state average, second from the bottom; our teacher's salaries for rank and experience are near the medium of the ten systems studied; our tax rate was third lowest of the system; and sixth, without change in our financial structure, we'll do well to hold the level of education we now have, increase in the value of property in our district will probably take care of the expense of increased enrollments."

The committee will meet again on February 19.

McElrath Is Author Of Bible Text

NASHVILLE — William N. McElrath, native of Murray, Ky., has written "Great Passages of the Bible," companion volumes for teacher and student. Broadman Press will release the textbook Jan. 18.

McElrath, editor of Junior lesson courses in the Baptist Sunday School Board's Sunday School department, Nashville, has combined 36 Bible passages into 30 chapters and six units. His approach is an academic one, with assignments, reports and notebook work in every chapter. These activities will involve fifth and sixth grade students in a content study of the Bible.

The teacher's text has two major divisions: resource material and study suggestions for the teacher, and procedures and study suggestions for use in class sessions. The student's material is presented with a variety of study suggestions.

McElrath graduated from Murray High School in 1949 and from Murray State College in 1953. He holds the bachelor of divinity and master of theology degrees from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville.

"Great Passages of the Bible" will be available through religious and general book stores.

McElrath is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh McElrath.

Tourists Drop $200 Million In Kentucky During Year 1962

FRANKFORT — All the figures are not yet in for 1962 but Kentucky's Division of Tourism and Travel Promotion say it was a real honey of a year for Kentucky businesses geared to serve the traveler and vacationist. More out-of-state people visited Kentucky and they spent more money than in 1961, but nobody knows how much for sure.

Charles Warnick, Tourism and Travel's director, said that all indications point to 1962 having been the biggest tourist year in Kentucky's history.

"I believe that when all returns are in," he said, "we'll find that tourists spent well over $200 million during the year. They spent $193 million in 1961 and I'm quite certain they spent at least five percent more in 1962."

He noted that the state's advertising campaign in national magazines and newspapers had been an outstanding success.

"About 75,000 people wrote for information in response to coupon-bearing ads," he said. "That's an increase of about 20,000 over 1961, over a 37 1/2 percent gain and all but a tiny fraction came from out-of-state."

Warnick then pointed out that the ad response figure could not be directly related to the number of visitors, but that it did serve as a general indicator. He went on to explain that many factors and many people contribute to the success of the division's work.

"It's impossible to determine how many visitors any one individual effort produced," he said. "We work with many other groups, both inside and outside State government. We participate in many kinds of promotion besides the advertising we do in publications."

"For example," he said, "we play host to a group of travel editors in May, 1962, touring the state and showing them our parks and other attractions. They enjoyed themselves so much that Kentucky's praises were sung over the next several months in such national magazines as Argosy, Bride's Magazine, American Motorist, Town & Country and scores of newspapers and smaller periodicals all over the country. We couldn't begin to buy that kind of publicity on a paid advertisement basis."

Remarking that the function his division is to attract as many people as possible from other states and to keep them in Kentucky as long as possible, he added:

"Every out-of-state visitor coming across our border is worth around $10 apiece to Kentucky's economy."

Warnick said that local groups are working effectively and harmoniously with the Tourism and Travel Division in promoting the state's attractions. He particularly mentioned the Kentucky Travel Council.

TAX CUTS AS INCENTIVES

THE way stock prices went up following the "State of the Union" speech by President Kennedy Monday is a clear indication that investors believe some reductions will be good for the economy by increasing buying power and providing for new industry and spurring activity in building trades.

It is doubtful, however, that Congress will go along with the huge cuts asked for without stopping loopholes, curbing tax evasion and cuts in non-defense spending and approximate the proposed cuts in tax rates.

Mr. Kennedy recognized one of the most important economic facts of life when he said our present taxing system which was designed to halt inflation has now become decadent and is retarding our rate of growth and adding to unemployment because it is acting as a brake on incentive and causing huge sums of cash to seek security rather than risk.

In other words there is such a thing as high tax rates producing less revenue and it seems we have reached that point.

Slashes on such a scale as the President suggests, however, with no effective reforms, or cuts in non-essential spending, are, we believe, irresponsible and unacceptable to a majority of the members of Congress, regardless of party affiliation. Such a proposal will be opposed by men who regard themselves as "liberals," as well as by conservatives.

What the President left unsaid about some of our most pressing economic problems, such as the continuing labor-management disputes, as well as the revolt against farm controls and regimentation, was surprising to his supporters as well as his critics.

And when he says West Berlin is still free "and secure," that there has been much progress in the Congo and that missiles and jet planes have been removed from Cuba, he is asking for vocal opposition from many Democrats and most Republicans.

The address was outstanding in many respects and shows much thought and it was delivered in a more mature manner than any the President has heretofore made.

There is no question but what we must step up our progress to meet growing needs of our people, and there is little doubt that our economy is stronger than it has ever been and can therefore take more abuse. But responsible leaders of industry, commerce and labor, know there must be limits to spending and curbs to executive power if we are to maintain the freedoms which have made this country a world leader and provided us with the means to help mankind at home and abroad.

Thanks to the legislative branch of our government we believe the 86th Congress will make such changes in the President's program as to meet with the approval of our people and provide the incentives so badly needed to increase production on all fronts and thereby maintain our leadership in world affairs.

cell, jointly sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, and its program for the promotion of Russell County on the northern arm of Lake Cumberland.

"During its first year of operation," he said, "this model program increased retail sales by 30 percent. Jamestown and Russell Springs felt a noticeable impact. Russell County now has a $10,000 budget for tourist promotion, all subscribed locally."

The Kentucky Travel Council now has 408 Travel Hosts all through the state, each of whose establishments has a literature rack and someone in attendance with a sound knowledge of local attractions and facts.

Since Kentucky is spending around $18 million in its vast parks and vacation facilities expansion program, a major effort is expanded in promoting Kentucky as a vacation land.

"A State park with its beautiful accommodations and lavish appointments is the magnet with which we draw people into the state," Warnick explained. "Today's vacationer has money to spend and he'll spend it where he can find the most enjoyment. A couple with two children will spend about $23 a day during a week's vacation."

Whether they spend it in a State Park or in a private resort makes no difference. The $23 a day is new money being pumped into the economy and its effect soon reaches into every corner of the Commonwealth.

Flood that Kentucky's new look, its appeal to vacationers and its beautiful new lodges all add up to visitor satisfaction may be found in abundance. It comes into the Tourist and Travel Division in Frankfort with every mail. Hundreds of people from all over the nation have written in to say what fun they had, how well pleased they were on a recent visit, how much they enjoy coming to Kentucky and how they are telling their friends about it.

"This word-of-mouth publicity," Warnick said, "this warm, personally radiated sense of satisfaction is the most valuable kind in the world. It is beyond price and it is the cornerstone of our future as a vacation land. I hope everybody in Kentucky will try to make our visitors feel they are genuinely welcome."

chestra in Marcello's "Concerto in C Minor." Miss Childers, who played with highly satisfying musicality and verve, also secured a uniformly good tone from her instrument. Miss Childers played with an authority that can only come from generous doses of hard and thoughtful work on the instrument.

Mr. Leslie Putnam, who is so well known in our city, performed two songs with the Orchestra. The songs, both of which were arranged for String Orchestra by Mr. Goxans, were Schubert's "Das Wandern" and "Ships That Pass in the Night" by T. Wilkinson Stephenson. Mr. Putnam, who was for many years a teacher of singing in the Fine Arts Department, serves still as the best kind of vocal example for us all, particularly our young voice students.

at the College. Mr. Putnam's singing tone was characterized by a seeming effortless and freedom that are the hallmarks of a finely honed technique. One simply could not sing in all areas of one's range with such a balanced tone quality as Mr. Putnam did. Were it not for the fact that one has taken infinite pains to train one's voice rightly and well.

Mr. Putnam is living testimony to the fact that healthy singers, so long as they build their voices intelligently, need not let the calendar put an end to their singing.

Bellarmino Hopes To Get Over Hump

By United Press International
Bellarmino College will try tonight to get over the hump in its bid for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship, and Western Kentucky will be trying simply to get off the deck in the Ohio Valley Conference race.

Coach Alex Groza's Bellarmino Knights, unbeaten in the KMAC, will be shooting for their 11th straight victory and their sixth in conference play tonight at Transylvania. If they win over the Lexington quintet, they will equal the longest victory streak in Bellarmino history, forged by the Knights in 1954.

A win also would move the Knights that much closer to their first conference crown.

The down-and-nearly-out Western Hilltoppers are hoping to bring a seven-game losing streak to a screeching halt tonight at Morehead.

Never in the annals of Western basketball has a Hilltopper team gotten off to such a poor start.

Coach Ed Diddle's battered warriors have a 2-8 record and are 0-4 in the OVC.

Morehead, on the other hand, finds it is very much in the title chase with a 1-1 conference record. Over-all, coach Bobby Laughlin's Eagles are 5-2.

Elsewhere in the state tonight, Kentucky Wesleyan is host to across-the-border rival Evansville and Union entertains Kentucky

State. The University of Louisville team meets Xavier at Cincinnati, where the Cardinals have not been able to beat the home-standing Musketeers in the last nine years.

Murray, the pre-season favorite for the OVC crown, saw its title hopes diminish last night in a 78-70 loss to East Tennessee at Johnson City, Tenn.

The Buccaneers dealt the Thoroughbreds their third setback in the conference while enhancing their own chances for the championship by boosting their league record to 3-0. Murray has a 2-3 mark in the OVC where Tennessee Tech is setting the conference pace with a 4-0 record.

East Tennessee Defeats Murray 78-70; Racers 2-3 In Circuit

The East Tennessee Buccaneers dealt Murray State a 78-70 setback last night at Johnson City, Tenn. The win upped the Bucs record to 3-0 in the conference and dropped the Racers to 2-3.

Murray stayed in contention throughout the game after leading in the early stages. East Tennessee went on top 23-22 with eight and half minutes to play in the first half and carried a nine point lead into halftime.

Shortly after the opening of the second half East moved into an 11-point margin but Murray sliced away at the lead and closed in.

Murray out-scored the host team then 13-3 in a brief span to move within one point, 47-46, with 14:46 left. The Racers were never able to quite overtake East but stayed within striking distance until the closing minutes of play.

Late in the period the Bucs erupted to a 71-63 advantage and then moved into a 78-63 lead with 39 seconds to go. Stan Walker got a three-pointer and Butch Hill scored a fielder to cut the gap to the final 78-70 score.

Scott Schlosser and Al Varnas paced Murray with 16 and 15 points respectively. Mal Roberts led a four-man attack for the victors with 21 points.

The Thoroughbreds return home to meet Morehead Saturday night, East Tennessee Monday night, and Memphis State Wednesday night.

Kenlake Homemakers Meet At Home Of Mrs. Waldrop

Mrs. Columbus Waldrop was hostess at her home for the meeting of the Kenlake-Homemakers Club held on Friday, January 11, at twelve-thirty o'clock.

The lesson on "Faith and Feds of Medicine" was given by Mrs. Edward Lee. A film on the subject was shown.

Refreshments were served to the ten members and four visitors, Mesdames Barletta Weather, Mary Bailey, Lillie Cope, and Raye Brooks, with the latter becoming a new member.

Bethany Class Meet Held Monday With Mrs. H. C. Chiles

The home of Mrs. H. C. Chiles on Elm Street was the scene of the meeting of the Bethany Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church held on Monday evening at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Edgar Shirley was the guest devotional speaker and gave an inspiring message on "Faith" with her scripture reading from the eighth chapter of Matthew.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Rudolph Thurman, Mrs. Albert Key, vice-president, presided and Mrs. Vester Orr led the opening prayer.

Games were directed by Mrs. Inez Clayton after which refreshments were served to the twenty-one members and one visitor, Mrs. Shirley, by Group III composed of Mrs. Chiles, Mrs. Hubert Dowdy, Mrs. Hugh Wilson, and Mrs. Ora Wyatt.

The WSCS of the First Methodist Church began a spiritual life study of the text "The Discipline of Prayer." The first series was held in the social hall of the church from 9:00 a.m. until 11:00 a.m. beginning Wednesday, January 16. The series will be continued at the same hours on January 18, 23 and 25.

Mrs. Walter Mischke is conducting the series. The nursery will be open.

The ladies of the community are invited to attend this series of meetings.

Genealogical Club Projects Discussed At Waldrop Home

The Calloway County Genealogical Club met in the home of Mrs. Wesley Waldrop on Miller Avenue on Monday, January 7, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The constitution and by-laws were adopted by the members.

This organization hopes that many people in the county will join and help record history of their ancestors, Calloway church, schools, and cemeteries.

Present members are collecting Bible records and would like to have copies of all Calloway County Bibles.

During this year the club will complete the listing of the graves of each cemetery in the county. These listings will probably be printed in book form.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Fred Gingles on Monday, February 4, at 2 p.m.

CHAPTER 17

ALONE in his room, Carlo never felt less like sleeping. The admiration in Ronny Sheldon's eyes had acted like adrenaline. He was nine feet tall and growing.

He lit a cigarette and began pacing up and down the room, shoulders back, head up, ready to lick the world.

Then, slowly, inch by inch, he began to shrink. A vague discomfort stole over him and he tried to locate it. For a while he side-stepped the truth, but finally, in a burst of unusual honesty, he admitted that it was Ronny Sheldon's eyes that were making him feel like this.

She would never speak to him again if she knew he had used her as a cushion in a shifty deal even if it was harmless.

Instantly he defended himself. In a fury of doubletalk now could he have done any other? What he did do? Only an idiot would have stopped a bullet at the Riverside Drive apartment when Nick gave him five minutes to make up his mind. And afterward, when he was out of there, the danger was even worse. It would have been suicide to doubtless Nick with his eerie hoodoo who killed on contract. There wasn't a guy in the world who would have done different.

Feeling a little better, he swung away from reality and began a pleasant fantasy in which he and Ronny, away from all parental stuffed shirts, moved in a world of their own. He chuckled at a great idea came full-grown into being.

With his percentage of the ransom, he and Ronny could be all set. Four hundred thousand dollars would buy a good-sized ranch and a couple of well-bred brood mares. Stud service from a first-class stallion would be no problem. He'd have the money.

And then it hit him. He realized why he was feeling so dirty about the whole business. The money, just as he had felt queasy when Nick offered a percentage to get him to recommend his friends to bet with him, now he felt a thousand times shabbier for using Ronny in a lousy scheme for a forty per cent cut.

He could see her shock if she ever learned that his light-hearted suggestion to drive her up to school had been a carefully move in a well-planned con game with Ronny as victim. She would remember the indignity of being tied up and gagged, to say nothing of her terror of Harry and his damned gun.

But all that was minor. He could see her eyes hardened to steel-blue when she realized that he had done it for money. He couldn't blame her. It softened him, so very, too, but there was still time to correct it. To help with the money. He wouldn't take a penny of it.

Policy Shift Made After Cuba Fiasco

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Nikita Khrushchev's scheme to set up rocket bases in Cuba backfired and Fidel Castro suffered subsequent humiliation throughout Latin America, it was natural and expected that an important policy shift to restore lost prestige would follow.

First tangible evidence came when Venezuela reported intercepting a coded signal from Havana Radio directing Fidelesta-Communist agents in Latin America to step up their campaigns of subversion and violence.

Within hours, saboteurs in Venezuela blew up four oil-company power stations at Lake Maracaibo.

Evidence accumulates. Since then, more evidence has accumulated.

Last week, Peru's ruling military junta suddenly carried out a vast roundup of Communists, Castroites and fellow travelers on charges that they plotted a simultaneous break-out of violence throughout the country in order to pave the way for a Communist government controlled by Moscow.

That the arrests were not merely acts of oppression by a frightened military dictatorship was confirmed in Washington where worried officials had been warning the Lima government for weeks that just such a plot was in the works.

Secret Arms Caches
In Sao Paulo, Brazil, UPI correspondent Joseph Brant interviewed a secret police inspector in the Public Security Ministry. The inspector, Alcides Cintra, Bueno Filho, charged that Soviet arms for a projected Brazilian peasant league uprising are buried in secret caches all over Brazil.

The inspector led the investigation which uncovered two such caches in late December.

Czech-made arms were wrapped in Havana newspapers dated Feb. 24, 1962.

Since Brazil still maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba, the movement through the country of Castro and Communist agents traveling on Cuban passports is relatively easy.

Brazil's long and accessible northeast coast also makes the shipment of illegal arms easy.

Many Weapons Remain
Despite removal of offensive missiles, Castro still has plenty of weapons left with which to encourage revolt among peoples already discontent as result of unbalanced economies, hunger and galloping inflation.

Estimates as to the worth of Soviet-bloc arms in Cuba range all the way from $100 million to $400 million.

Cuba's Argentine-born minister of industries, Ernesto (Che) Guevara has confirmed Cuban intent. Cuba, he said, would encourage revolution wherever it occurred.

The initial objective need not be an immediate Communist take over.

Rather, a first objective might simply be to create such chaos that the army would feel obliged to take over. Thus they would prove that peaceful processes advocated by the U.S. Alliance for Progress must fail and that violent revolution is inevitable.

DESERT SONG—This new John Fredericks headgear shown in New York seems to be a kind of "Desert Song," complete with sun spots. The cloche is of white dotted silk, organically with separate scarf draped over an agal of black taffeta.
